Dear Mom & Dad,

It started snowing this morning just before Diane left for Kindergarten. She has been so excited all day, and played out in it this afternoon. The red snow suit just fits her perfectly, and she looks so cute all bundled up. It's supposed to snow all night tonight, and get up to about 6-8 inches by tomorrow.

I just fixed a nice fire in the fireplace, which is easy as this wood is so dry. We are going to fix popcorn tonight with the new popper Jim & Vickie gave Mike.

I was straightening up downstairs this afternoon while Diane was playing in her playhouse, and I found a small present from Grandpa, I had missed putting under the tree for Christmas. Diane was so excited. It was the little music box, which she loves.

Jimmy called today to see how we are doing with all this snow. I went grocery shopping yesterday so am not planning to drive at all. I'm glad there's no place we have to go. Jimmy was in a race New Years Day and beat his own record and passed a couple others who usually come in ahead of him.

Bye, for now.
